9:00 P.M.

Effective Communication Strategies related to the needs of children and adults living with FASD including sharing information with professionals

Brenda Knight, a counseling psychologist and FASD Mental Health Specialist in private practice in Vancouver, B.C., offers five decades of experience with families, children, youth and adults living with the diverse mental health challenges. Having learned about the psychological issues often experienced by persons diagnosed with FASD, she committed much of her practice to addressing their emotional well-being and mental health care throughout their lifespan.

Brenda is recognized nationally and internationally for her respectful, compassionate and realistic approach to helping those living with FASD and their families.

This is a free virtual workshop for parents and caregivers ONLY!
